Understanding cables

Every cable message consists of three parts:

- The top box shows each cables unique reference number, when and by whom it originally was sent, and what its initial classification was.
- The middle box contains the header information that is associated with the cable. It includes information about the receiver(s) as well as a general subject.
- The bottom box presents the body of the cable. The opening can contain a more specific subject, references to other cables (browse by origin to find them) or additional comment. This is followed by the main contents of the cable: a summary, a collection of specific topics and a comment section.

(C) Subsequent to the contacts described in ref A, the Ambassador spoke with President Toledo on the afternoon of 7/26, and briefed the President on the USG's opposition to the G-4 framework resolution, per ref B talking points.

Toledo did not say definitively how Peru would vote, and stressed that he had not yet taken a final position. He commented that he had real concerns about supporting any resolution promoting a UNSC seat for Japan, given the current state of affairs between Japan and Peru over the extradition of former President Fujimori. Toledo seemed to be leaning toward abstention if the resolution comes to a vote, and he even admitted the possibility of voting against, given the difficult situation with Japan.
